Guidelines: Practical Tips for Working and Socializing with Deaf-Blind People

1994, Theresa Smith • ISBN 978-1-881133-17-9

You meet a Deaf-Blind person—now what? This practical guide will help you explore the effect of deaf-blindness on those of us who are not deaf-blind. Rather than discussing research, this readable manual presents ideas based on experience and observations. Guidelines will help you not only work with Deaf-Blind people but enjoy them as peers. Section headings include: courtesy, guiding, communication, interpreting, and further resources. Printed in large type.

VIDEOS / DVDS

Group Discussion and Analysis of Interpretation DVD

This video demonstrates how interpreters, teachers, students of interpreting, and mentors can experience constructive interactions about their work. Three interpreters were filmed while interpreting segments of previously taped materials. They were then invited by Betty Colonomos to discuss their work and the work of their colleagues in front of the camera. What you see is an unrehearsed account of the discussion. This DVD will help model constructive and healthy discussion among interpreters, in both content and approach. It is perfect for use in the classroom and interpreting lab, as a teaching tool for instructors, and in mentorship meetings for modeling, and to stimulate discussion.
